Problem

- Given the massive upcoming growth in online sports betting, consumers need reliable resources to make educated betting decisions.
- Current solutions are often provided by sports-media companies who are partnered with specific sportsbooks
  - As such, data is often "selectively" shown- ie enticing bets are advertised, huge wins are shown while losses are kept quiet, etc

Solution

Our website, Bethuntr.com, provides a multi-use platform for users to obtain insight into betting data, track their past bets to look for patterns in their wins/losses, and browse the upcoming slate of games to identify potentially-successful bets.

Feature 6 - Combined Architecture

Next Steps

- Add particularly useful/insightful analysis that synthesizes multiple data sources rather than just reporting data as is
- Move backend architecture off parse and onto a more scalable model (AWS's mongoDB for instance)
- Improve user's ability to manage their account (deleting account, resetting password, changing username, etc)

Thanks!
